Sustainable Agriculture and Rural Development (SARD)

Lopez Community Land Trust (LCLT) has initiated and co-created several agriculture-related programs, including:
- Biannual Lopez Island Farm Products Guide.
- The nation’s first USDA-approved Mobile Processing Unit, enabling local farmers to supply their community with healthy, locally raised meats. Now owned by the Island Grown Farmers Cooperative.
- Co-published the book Bounty: Lopez Island Farmers, Food and Community.
- Lopez Fresh, a fresh food bank, now with the Lopez Island Family Resource Center (LIFRC).
- Lopez Grains CSA, with shares of locally grown non-GMO wheat.
- Lopez Seed Library
- Co-founded LIFE Garden and Farm Program with the Lopez School District
- Supported two county-wide Ag initiatives: Bountiful Earth and Slow Food, Lopez Island.

tips for visiting farms
- Call ahead for directions, hours & product availability.
- Please do not bring pets.
Farm Products also available at Lopez Island Farmers Market Saturdays 10am-2pm Mid-May to mid-September

Lopez Island Farm Trust (LIFT)
A project of Lopez Community Land Trust

- Strengthen our local food system, ecologically diverse and access to local foods.
- Develop a comprehensive, legal, ethical and economically viable land lease system.
- Provide affordable access to land and infrastructure for farmers.
- Implement sound business practices for regenerative income to support the farms and farmers.
- Develop farm programs for beginning farmers and other in search of life skills.
- Provide educational opportunities.
- Cultivate systems that encourage multi-generational living on the land and affordable housing.
- Generate sources of local food and farm products by acquiring, leasing and managing new & historical farms; and
- Resue and revitalize the working rural character of Lopez Island through educational practices that build soil.

www.bountifulearthlopez.com

We are grateful to the Lopez Chamber of Commerce for co-publishing this guide. For more information about Lopez Island, visit: www.LopezIsland.com.